

Hi Everyone,

I am promised that spring/summer will be here soon —at least I do not have to be in a hurry to get the garden in yet! Owing to the inclement spring very few people are up for a Working Equitation Show on June 4th, so I am going to go with the flow and change it to a clinic day. Sue Eoff and I have put together a day which will launch us into a fun summer of creating enhanced horse/rider partnerships.

We will commence at 9 a.m. with Selfseeds for the Equestrian and then move onto Selfseeds with the horses.

Lunch will be included in the clinic, so we can eat while I share with you my experience of the 'New World Sanctuary' work of Ren Hurst. She has developed ideas on how we might 'heal the planet' by thoroughly studying what it takes to create an equal partner of a horse from either 'learned helplessness' (over domestication) or troubled. This list of ideas can equally apply to horses or people.

The afternoon will be filled with riding. Sue will lead her Selfseeds for horses and riders. I will have a Working Equitation Obstacle course set for practice using the concepts we have already visited during the day. It will be a day filled with many many thought provoking ideas on communication and partnership. I taught clinics in New Zealand combining the Selfseeds and Ren Hurst philosophy with huge success. To have Sue, the creator of Selfseeds, to co-teach with I am sure will make this a special clinic.
